At the debate, Romney refused to answer even the question, "Should the Hyde Amendment be revisited and is this the right answer for the future?" The campaign instead chose to make a pointed, negative point and suggest that the government was doing a disservice by forcing abortion on minors.. "We've got an obligation to support the women of America who don't have options," Saul said. "Now, the president on Friday made clear that he believes that, and therefore he doesn't believe that you should mandate that abortions be available after 20 weeks, and that seems in our view to be contrary to the most vital pro-life principles." . The new icons show that some subcategories have not been touched, as they show icons of "actions," which are a bit smaller compared to their old design..
